

The Meditation Room is Ready for Visitors

The small courtyard in the middle of the church has been transformed into a meditation room. You can find the door to this outdoor area in the hallway between the chapel and Wesley Hall. There are chairs and a table and you are welcome to come and meditate or just rest for a few minutes. Lorraine Hahn (shown in the "before" picture on the right), with the help of several other people, manages to turn this area into a green garden each summer (see the "after" picture, far right). The plants spend the winters on the church's fourth floor.

